NORFOLK, VA., August 31.—Passengers
on the Old Dominion steamship Hamilton, which arrived here yesterday morning from New York, tell a thrilling tale of the sighting of the schooner Massachusetts, of which much has been written of late, owing to the fact that the father of two girls who were aboard had sworn out a warrant for the arrest of the captain of the Massachusetts on a charge of abduc-

The warrants were withdrawn upon information furnished by the two girls' mothers that they had given their consent to the trip. None of these facts were known to Captain Lane, of the sent to the trip. None of these facts were known to Captain Lane, of the schooner, however, and when he ran into the storm which prevented the yacht race Saturday, he was worried about the two girls aboard the laboring schooner.

The seas were running very high, and the danger was great. The schooner was then, the Hamilton's passengers say, some distance south of Sandy Hook, but well in the path of the coastwise shipping. When the Hamilton sighted her she was fixing signals of distress, and the big liner bore down upon her to render such aid as was possible. It required a long time to get within halling distance without incurring the risk of collision in the heavy gale, but the Hamilton finally accomplished the feat.

"What do you want?" yelled Captain Boaz through his megaphone.

"We are all right, I think," came back the roply, "but there are two girls from Norfolk, whom the captain wishes taken back to Norfolk aboard the Hamilton. He safraid they may be in danger aboard Massachusetts, and wishes to be rid of the responsibility."

The schooner appeared to be doing well in the heavy storm, however, although her pumps were going. However, Captain Ecaz decided that unless there was danger howerd.

men, and he therefore ordered no boat lowered.

The passengers believed that Captain Lane had been given copies of the New York papers containing the account of the warrants issued in Norfolk for his arrest when he reached that port, and that he feared to carry the girls into port. Others do not discount his statement that he wanted to feel that the girls were safe aboard the steamer.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

John W. Brockwell, a carpenter, living in the suburb of Scottsville, Norfolk founty, committed suicide Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock under peculiar circumstances. It appears that his wife and adopted daughter had been spending some time at a nearby seaside resort and that, hecoming lonely in their absence. Brockwell went off on a spree. The protest cledms that the team which took first prize (75 in plate) cannot under the rules of the association be justly looked upon as the winner, since Mr. Dian Kerr, of Washington, was not a member of the hunt club in which he rode.

Public opinion seems to be about equally divided concerning the merits of the case.

The Board of Directors will look into the matter at once, but will probably not reach a decision before the latter part of the week.

Danville Tobacco Market.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

DANVILLE, VA., Aus. 28.—The past week has shown but little activity on the local tobacco market and the sales have easted less than an hour each day. The offerings consisted mainly of new primings and small lots of new tobacco from extreme southern part of the bright district. About 25 per cent. of the offerings have been of the 1902 crop. The offerings have been very poor, both the new and the old, the old being partly damaged and very little selling for more than 10 cents. Some cheap common wrappers soid as low as 3 cents and some as high as 15 cents, and fillers soid at 6 to 8 cents. New primings are selling all the way from 50 cents to 53.50, and fairly good lugs soid from 2 to 5 cents.

SENSATIONAL POLITICS

Charges of Fraud in Fauquier County Contest.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

MORRISVILLE. VA., August 31—In the Democratic primary in Fauquier county on August 22d, Alex. Hamilton had a plurality of fifty-two votes over John E. Ollinger, the next strongest candidate for sheriff. On the 24th Mr. Ollinger appeared before the County Board and asked ten days to investigate the vote of Morrisville, where some of his friends reported he had not been fairly dealt with, before he decided to contest Mr. Hamilton's nomination.

Some of Mr. Ollinger's lieutenants were very bitter in their denunciations, claiming that a Republican had been allowed to vote, and that fifteen men at least would swear that they had voted for John E. Ollinger for sheriff, while the judges of the primary only returned eleven votes.

The hope of the Ollinger men is to have this precinct thrown out, which would give John E. Ollinger the nomination. Politics are more exciving and more generally discussed now than before the primary, and some very wild and sensational reports are current.

The judges of the primary were men of the highest standing in the community, and it is the general opinion that the primary was fair and impartial, but that some of the voters may have promised to vote for one candidate, yet in reality depositing a ballot in favor of a rival. VIRGINIA BEACH, VA., Aug. 31.—
The announcement that Mr. J. Tallott Capps, of Back Bay, will enter the race for the House of Delegates against Dr.
George F. Snead, the nominee of the primary, promises a lively fight in Princess Anne county.

There is a strong element here as elsewhere in Princess Anne in favor of the Mann bill and because none of the candidates before the primary took a stand for that measure, a great many Democrats who favor the Mann bill did not enter the primary. It is this element who have induced Mr. Capps to run outside of the primary and they will support him in the fight.

Mr. Capps is a prominent farmer, a Democrat and one of the most substantial men in the county. He has a wide acquaintance with the men who make their living on the waters of Princess Ane shooting wild fowl and will champion their cause against the encroachment on their natural privileges by the wealthy gun clubs, which have taken up a larse

A strong efort will be made to get the political control out of the hanos of the liquor element and a big fight will be made on the part of the liquor men to defeat the Man nbill and the contest will no doubt be a very warm one.
